

Bingo Clue Cards

goldenrod

- pollen makes some people sneeze
- flower not usually grown in gardens

onion

- gives you bad breath
- can make you cry
- flowers produce small, black seeds

Swiss chard

- the leaves are eaten raw or cooked
- similar to spinach
- leaf stalks can be white, yellow or red carrot

- the orange root is eaten raw or cooked
- Bugs Bunny loves them!

hot peppers

- fruit is often red or green
- can burn your tongue
- plastic gloves often worn when handling them
- eaten raw or cooked
- some types are jalapeño, serrano, Habanero, and cayenne

cucumber

- usually eaten raw
- can become a pickle
- grows on a vine
- spas use slices to reduce eye puffiness

eggplant

- large, dark purple veggie
- inside is light tan color
- not eaten raw
- does not come from a chicken!

cilantro

- often used in salsa
- seed is called coriander
- leaves have strong smell

ginger

- grows underground as a rhizome
- tastes sharp!
- an ingredient in a soda ending in the word 'ale'

cauliflower

- the white part is usually eaten
- the white bunches are called florets
- eaten raw or cooked

lima bean

- usually eaten cooked
- can be dried
- can be sold in cans

pumpkin

- can be large and orange
- technically is a fruit
- carved into faces at Halloween
- usually not eaten raw
- seeds can be roasted

pole bean

- edible part can be green or yellow
- eaten raw or cooked
- they grow on a vine
- the vine grows on a fence or other structure

tomato

- technically is a fruit
- eaten raw or cooked
- made into ketchup
- ingredient in spaghetti sauce
- usually red when ripe

lettuce

- eaten in salads and on hamburgers
- the leaf is eaten raw
- usually a variety of green colors
- bunnies love this veggie

radish

- the edible part is the spherical root
- usually is eaten raw
- often is red with a white inside
- found in salads

squash

- can be green like zucchinis
- some kinds can be eaten raw
- other kinds are cooked