About the Community Read

This year we join local libraries and community partners for the eighth year of the Longwood Gardens' Community Read—a program designed to encourage reading for pleasure and start a conversation. In 2022, we're encouraging our Community Readers to explore the concept of trees as nature's great connectors, and how trees may help us gain insight into ourselves and our place in the world.

In our featured title, The Song of Trees, journey with David Haskell as he repeatedly visits a dozen trees in cities from Manhattan to Jerusalem, forests (Amazonian, North American, and boreal) and areas on the front lines of environmental change, including eroding coastlines, burned mountainsides, and war zones. In each place he shows how human history, ecology, and well-being are intimately intertwined with the lives of trees.

For our youngest readers, learn the importance of taking care of the environment and each other as two young families in two very different parts of the world each plant a tree in We Planted a Tree by Diane Muldrow.

Know a young person thinking about a career in tree science? Follow eight budding tree advocates through their career journeys and see firsthand what it takes to be a tree scientist in the graphic novel Canopy Career Chronicles. In partnership with the Morton Arboretum, Canopy Career Chronicles provides resources and tips for getting started on your career exploration.

That's the question we are posing for this year's Community Read with David Haskell's Song of Trees. Scientific, lyrical, and contemplative, Haskell reveals the biological connections that underpin all life. In a world beset by barriers, he reminds us that life's substance and beauty emerge from relationship and interdependence.

Get reading this winter as we join with local libraries and community partners for the annual Community Read sponsored by Longwood Gardens.

And later this season, be sure to join fellow readers at our event (LIST YOUR ORGANIZATION EVENT DETAILS HERE) for an engaging opportunity to celebrate the Community Read. Learn more: longwoodgardens.org/community-read #CommunityRead
